

Note about the speaker:

MAGDALENA BARTOSZAK – researcher and lecturer at the Institute of Psychology, Department of Developmental and Educational Psychology (The Maria Grzegorzewska University in Warsaw, Poland). Psychologist, certified trainer, educational expert, owner of the training company (she is conducting trainings for school principals and teachers in the whole Poland). Author of scientific publications in the field of cross-cultural psychology and education. She is conducting didactic classes (universities), mainly in the area of cross-cultural psychology. Lecturer on the postgraduate studies with her own programme "Against Burnout syndrome" and "Work Methodology".

A graduate of psychology at the Jagiellonian University in Cracow and PhD studies at the Institute of Psychology in the Polish Academy of Sciences in Warsaw (Cross-Cultural Laboratory), which she graduated with honors. Scholarship holder of the Minister of Science and Higher Education. The first chairwoman PhD Government of the Polish Academy of Sciences in Poland, she was the representative of the Polish Academy of Sciences in the National Representation of Doctoral Students.

Member of scientific societies: IACCP (International Association for Cross-Cultural Psychology), Society for the Teaching of Psychology, Association for Psychological Science. Her research interests include: intercultural psychology (migration, refugees, acculturation, social stereotypes, globalization), interdisciplinary research (cultural diversity, human rights <children's rights>, contemporary challenges of psychology, school psychology).

She has a practical experienced as a psychologist and in cooperation with a business sector, including business university ("Negotiations in a intercultural environment"). Author of programs: "Working with a student from a different cultural circle", "Working with a gifted child", "CREATIVE START" (project with Adobe Reader company).

Speaker and author of publications as a part of the ERASMUS PLUS Programme. She visited different universities (e.g. Barcelona University in Spain), she made her scientific projects in cooperation e.g. with Sorbonne University in Paris and UNHCR. She was a Support Trainer as an advisor to school principals (KEY COMPETENCES - EU project), implemented the EU project "SCHOOL OF THE FUTURE". She has also implemented EU projects for the development of creativity among teachers and an EU coaching project.

Awarded by students as an academic teacher.